Revere Bank: Small Enough to Care, Big Enough to Meet Your Needs

Revere Bank, a full-service community bank, is focused on helping small- to medium-sized businesses grow, prosper and become even more successful.

Revere Bank opened its doors in November of 2007 with a banking team comprised of longtime banking veterans. Under the leadership of Ken Cook, President and Vice Chairman, and Andrew Flott, Chief Executive Officer, the bank's clients enjoy local decision making and personal supportive relationships with their bankers. Cook, Flott and the entire relationship management team are committed to replicating the same success they enjoyed previously in their banking careers, at another well-known Montgomery County-based financial institution.

Revere has one of the highest loan growth rates in the region. In 2011, the bank's loan portfolio grew 71%—with most of that growth being loans to commercial clients. To attract the funds to meet their strong loan demand, the bank offers some of the highest deposit rates in the markets we serve.

With over 150 collective years of entrepreneurial, commercial banking experience working in Montgomery County and the surrounding region, the Montgomery County lending team takes great pride in helping its clients achieve their goals.

"In today's environment, with fewer community banks, big banks dominate and it can be difficult for small businesses to access capital (loans) and maximize the return on their excess cash. In addition, the bigger banks do not often allow for customization of loans. We provide customized solutions, and we work hard to figure out how to get most deals done—every deal, like every business, is different. And, the decision makers are right here in Montgomery County," says Ken Cook.

Andrew Flott describes the bank's winning success formula. "We've found that our business owner and entrepreneur clients are focused on the basics. Like us, they want to profitably grow and deal with people they trust along the way."

Revere Bank serves businesses in Montgomery County as well as the entire corridor between Rockville and Annapolis. The bank has three branch offices and assets of $280 million.
